It was analyzed the condition of the development of the histori-cal and cultural monuments during 1945–1965 years in the region. It was established that creation of the holistic system of the state agencies in the domain of protection of such monuments promoted the research of historical and cultural heritage. It was determined that the new era in monument protection was launched in 1965 (creation of the voluntary association dealing with protection of the historical and cultural monuments)

The problem of marginal soils in Western Polesia, which require organic fertilization, was covered. It is noteworthy to use rotten slime as a fertilizer as this area is rich for waters, which are stocks of rotten slime. Actuality of rotten slime and fertilizers on their basis is specified, and the results of the research on the practical fertilization of rotten slime in the field, where wheat germ was grown, are represented. It was proved that the use of organic fertilizers accelerate the growth of germs

Keywords: rotten slime, Western Polesia, organic fertilizer, degraded soil fertility, ecosystem

Textbooks in Ukrainian language as a foreign language are analyzed in the article. The specific use of these textbooks for Turkmenian students is investigated. The effectiveness of textbooks is analyzed and it is found that textbooks in English as intermediary for Turkmenian students is ineffective. More efficient, but not always, are those textbooks in which the intermediary language acts is Russian

Technology is overcome as a mean in the formation of a new humanism as immediate, i.e. human relationship of man to himself and humanity of his general state, self-fulfillment, as in it is embodied, extinguished the intended goal, and the result brought into being given by a non-for-mean and by a goal. Humanism involves human life which is an end in itself, freedom – voluntary of conscious goal-setting and goal-implementation

URBAN SYNERGETICS. SOCIAL AND EXISTENTIAL FLUCTUATIONS

p. 44–50

The phenomenon of urban space has been explored from the perspective of synergetics as an open system of the continuous growth and a complication of the order and chaos processes' alternation. The article detects social and existential fluctuations in the system's development, the points of bifurcation and attractors such as the human factor, borderline situations, mental (existential) charting, social crises. The research illustrates that Homo Urbanus demonstrates an existential dynamic and mostly uses the «matrioshka» principle (mise en abyme) in the interaction with urban space

The article is devoted to the problem of thinking in the context of spiritual development of socio-cultural reality. The paper shows that understanding of the meaning and the subject of perception in the interpretation gets social and cultural content. The author conducts an analysis of symbolic forms of social reality. The work proves that human existence not only in physical, but also in the social aspect creates an objective need of interpretational, creative mental activity focused on the symbolic universe
